

9 reasons wholesalers run a verdict before they make the call

Swipe →

01

What a cash buyer will actually pay

The wholesale snapshot estimates the maximum allowable offer an end buyer supports from repaired value and rehab. Both inputs are shown so you can adjust them.

02

Your spread, in dollars

Contract price versus buyer price, less costs, equals the assignment fee this address can carry. You know the number before you name a price.

03

Assign, hold or flip, side by side

The long-term rental and fix-and-flip snapshots sit next to the wholesale one for the same address, so you see when a fee today is leaving a decade of cash flow on the table.

04

A verified cash buyer directory by market (Pro)

Filter buyers by state and city when you have a deal to move. The directory unlocks with the first Pro payment.

05

The verdict runs in 15 seconds, free

Paste any US address. Multi-source value, a rent estimate, the Deal Gap and six strategy snapshots come back without a signup or a card.

06

Three value sources, shown side by side

Zillow, RentCast and Redfin estimates are pulled live and blended into one IQ Estimate. Every source stays visible. When one has no data for the address it reads unavailable; nothing is made up.

07

Works on addresses that are not listed

Any US street address resolves to public records and live estimates, listed or not. An off-market lead gets the same verdict as a Zillow listing.

08

Built for the phone you already have out

Paste a Zillow link or an address, or scan the property from the camera in the iOS and Android apps. Same verdict, same numbers, wherever you are standing.

09

The Deal Gap, in dollars

Asking price minus the price that works. That one number is the offer conversation, and it is on the screen before you have spoken to anyone.

Run the lead before you dial

Paste the address from the lead sheet. The wholesale snapshot is part of the free verdict, no signup and no card.
